編修原有教材之內容

Speaking Activity 1

You and your partner(s) have received a $1 million (USD) government grant to start a new company of your choice.

Step 1: Together with your partner(s), think about what type of company you would like to create. (For example: software development; financial services; online retail sales; mobile device applications; video game development). In the table below, brainstorm the types of products or services that your company would offer (you can use the product you chose for Unit 3 - Launching a product). Finally, think of a name for your new company.

Company Name:

Type of company	Products/Services
Do mo	t copy

Step 2: Pair up with a different group and take turns explaining your company idea. Describe the benefits of the products/services that your company would offer, and explain why you think your company will be successful. Do not forget to explain the reason behind your company's name!

Speaking

Work with a partner or in a small group. Pick two types of energy production (i.e. wind turbine and coal) and write down the pros and cons of each type. Practice talking about the advantages and disadvantages with a partner using the following examples:

[Wind turbine] energy is vastly superior to [nuclear fission] energy because [there is no nuclear waste].
